

Jacko's First Achievement

by Ava Norris

Once upon a time, there was a princess. Her name was Princess Petal. Her friend's name was Britney Sparkle. Her best friend was Jacko the Dog.

One day, they all went to the forest to pick some apples. Princess Petal saw a monkey in a tree. It was Chico the Monkey. Princess Petal said hello. "Don't be shy, I won't hurt you," she said to the monkey. Chico was a bad monkey. He captured Princess Petal. He put a spell on her and said, "Come with me." Princess Petal followed him to his lair. She sat down on a chair and he locked her up in his dungeon.

Jacko the Dog noticed Princess Petal was missing when he saw her crown lying on the grass. He sniffed his way to Chico's lair and he saw Princess Petal trapped inside. He couldn't rescue her because he couldn't open the door. He decided to run back to Britney Sparkle and get her to help him.

Jacko and Britney ran back to Chico's lair. Britney saw the keys hanging just inside the front door. She crept in and grabbed the keys and unlocked the dungeon and set Princess Petal free. Princess Petal escaped from the dungeon and they all ran back to the forest.

They filled their baskets with apples and when they got home they made a lovely apple pie. Jacko got the biggest piece of apple pie because he had saved Princess Petal.
